

Assistant Professor
Department of Biology, Faculty of Science
Part Time Academic Instructor

Position Description

The Biology Department invites applications for a part-time Academic Instructor to teach Biology 151 Fundamentals of Human Anatomy and Physiology I (fall term) and Biology 152 Fundamentals of Human Anatomy and Physiology II (winter term) to first year students admitted to the four-year Bachelor of Science in Nursing program.

We seek applicants with a foundational background in biology, normally an undergraduate degree in Biology or related field, and a graduate degree, normally a minimum of a Master's degree, and/or a professional degree or designation relevant to the instruction of these two courses.

Preference will be given to individuals with a specialization in human or in mammalian biology, who have previous classroom teaching experience and strong communication skills.

The successful candidate should employ an equitable, diverse, inclusive, and accessible teaching approach to promote a respectful environment for all students, staff, and faculty.

Application Instructions

The review of applications will commence May 24, 2024 and continues until the position is filled. To apply, please submit a cover letter (outlining one's suitability for the position), a curriculum vitae, a statement on teaching experiences, interests, and teaching philosophy, as well as the names and email addresses of three references to:
